4. The following points were adopted by the working group.

a. The fact that any individual proves to be non-promotable but is highly qualified at his present level and position does not necessarily require selection out or further rotation.

b. Individuals may be rotated from a job to other assignments and back to the same job, but not necessarily so.

5. It was agreed that the following principle would be passed to the Career Benefits working group as a suggestion of rotation group:

"Individuals" do not necessarily have to be rotated to be eligible for career benefits.

6. It was agreed the following points would be covered next meeting: 25X1A9a
